You should note that past performance is not a reliable indicator of future returns and the value of your investments can fall as well as rise. The total return reflects performance without sales charges or the effects of taxation, but is adjusted to reflect all on-going fund expenses and assumes reinvestment of dividends and capital gains. If adjusted for sales charges and the effects of taxation, the performance quoted would be reduced.

UPDATE....

These updates have been written at the time of Coronavirus Pandemic in 2020 which has impacted the global financial markets in a way that has never been seen before.

The update has come on the back of one of the biggest falls in stock markets in recent time. The fund itself is down -12.53% against the MSCI World Index which is down -21.68%. What has surprised many is that many infrastructure stocks have fallen as much as the wider equity market. During these periods they see an opportunity to buy high quality utility businesses with good cash flow. These tend to recover quickly, and this worked well for the fund in 20128.

Areas which have suffered in the environment have been ports and airports. The fund currently has about 4.5% in airports and 2.68% in ports and this has been reduced recently. Utilities and essential services have performed better. Currently the fund has about 87% towards utilities.

The fund aims to provide downside protection and coming into this they were already defensively positioned. In everything they are always thinking about the potential negative outcome, especially in areas like renewable energy.

They have increased exposure to renewable energy and European utilities. They have reduced exposure to emerging markets because they see more value in developed markets. They have exited exposure to ports in China.

Based on their experience of the Global Financial Crash, it was high quality which rebounded quickest and this happened again in 2018. They favour a U shape recovery and although they do not know the timing, they know at some point it will come.

In summary, this is always going to be an alternative asset class, providing downside protection as well as steady long-term returns. Although down in this market it is about half the global world index and they believe it is well positioned to pick up the bounce when it comes.
